

Woody Biomass for Energy

Summary of Federal Programs Available for Business Enterprises

FY 2010

Introduction:

This summary of assistance is provided for any enterprise seeking federal programs to foster renewable energy projects using woody biomass. Consider this reference guide as a starting point in identifying key programs that can aid in the development and deployment of your renewable energy projects.

CFDA – All federal domestic assistance programs have a number assigned to them. The Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA) provides a list with descriptions of all Federal programs available to State and local governments; federally-recognized Indian tribal governments; Territories (and possessions) of the United States; domestic public, quasi- public, and private profit and nonprofit organizations and institutions; specialized groups; and individuals.

Award Limit – The dollar amount displayed in the table is the maximum amount the program area will allow. Each program has specific requirement such as matching funds, guarantee on cumulative loans percentage, and other requirement unique to their program authorities. Details regarding these requirements can be found on the CFDA or Agency website.

Agency Contacts in the table:
